To Whom It May Concern:

We purchased our first "Quadra Jet 250" in 1988. Since then we purchased a second in 1991, and just recently our third.

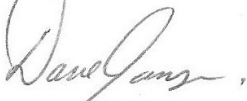

Our original machine after nearly ten years of service is still used on a daily basis, and has not shown any signs of deterioration, as is the case with our second machine.

Over the years we have had other jet wash units that did not clean as well or have the same degree of reliability as we have found with the "Quadra Jet". Coupled with the excellent service it was an easy choice for our third machine.

Our new machine has some features that the older units did not have that are proving to be worth the added cost. Feed back from the people using the units is extremely positive.

We will be looking for a fourth unit in the next two years, and it will most likely be a "Quadra Jet"
